

Franklin Women Carer's Travel Scholarship

The Franklin Women Carer's Travel Scholarship is to support health and medical researchers who also assume primary caring responsibilities for a family member. The includes the primary carer of one or more child under 5 years of age or unpaid caring responsibilities for family members who have a disability or chronic health condition. The scholarship (up to $1500) is to assist the recipient to present their research at a conference by contributing to any additional caring costs incurred by their attendance. The funds can be used in whatever way is best for the recipient's personal circumstances, for example, to fund a companion to attend the conference or fund additional days of childcare or respite care. We hope this scholarship will assist talented researchers disseminate their findings and build career connections at a conference they might have otherwise found difficult to attend.

Eligibility

To be eligible for the scholarship you must:

- Be currently employed or enrolled as a PhD student in the health and medical research field at a university or research institute in Australia (or on institute-approved parental leave).
- Be the primary carer of one or more children under 5 years of age or have other unpaid caring responsibilities for family members (i.e. with a disability or chronic/mental health condition or are frail elderly).
- Have a poster or oral abstract accepted for a national or international conference. You are still eligible to apply if you are waiting notification of acceptance, however funding will be awarded conditional to abstract acceptance.
- Have acquired funding to cover your personal conference travel and attendance costs (e.g. your conference registration, flights, accommodation and per-diem etc).
- Be a full or student member of Franklin Women at the time of applying.
- Have not previously received a Franklin Women carer's travel scholarship.
- Be happy to contribute to a Franklin Women blog or newsletter on conclusion of the travel.

Application requirements

Your application must demonstrate your commitment to an academic health and medical research career, how the scholarship will support your attendance at the proposed conference and the impact this conference would have on your career progression. If applicable, you may want to comment on any other pre/post conference meetings that are aligned with your research/career aims.

All applications must be submitted as one single file (named in the format: Surname_2019_Travel) via email to: hello@franklinwomen.com.au

Each application must include:

- completed Carer's Travel Scholarship Application Form provided on the Franklin Women website www.franklinwomen.com.au
- Curriculum vitae (maximum 4 pages) outlining your employment history, key publication and conference track record, contributions to the field and other relevant activities (noting career disruptions where relevant)
- Letter from your Head of School/Head of Research Group in support of your application and confirming your current position.
- Evidence of abstract acceptance or invitation to given a present.
